UPDATE: 8 OCTOBER

After a REAL apology from Riley was sent to Boz in private — wherein they took accountability (and provided vital context to ADDENDUM II), Boz has decided to forgive them.

Our thoughts on Riley will be elaborated more on in the (now deleted) ADDENDUM II, come next full release.

INTRODUCTION

Over the past month, the friend group of a well-known person in our community, known as ERROR, along with Bin, Riley, and Firewall, have harassed, manipulated, and threatened the life of another member of our community, Boz Laboratories.

On top of that, ERROR has been sheltering (and dating) an individual who has a history of saying slurs and other disgusting and dangerous behavior.

Our document is split into 2 parts:

PART 1: WITH BOZ

// CW: Death Threats, Gore (written)

The first part of this document is about ERROR and her friend group, mainly an ongoing "drama" with Boz: how it started, how it developed, etc. Also includes a list of every major incident and crime this group has committed, along with 10 statements from different members of the community – including Boz himself and one of ERROR's friends who did take part in the group's witch-hunting.

PART 2: FIREWALL

// CW: Slurs, Gore (written)

While compiling our receipts for PART 1, we came across some extremely concerning information about one of ERROR's friends, (@/Firewall_0o, alts: @/Dolios_VT, @/Spindle_JM).

PART 3: CONCLUSION

// No content warnings for this part.

Now that you know all of this, what should you do? How should you respond? How can we stop this from happening again?

PART 4: ADDENDUMS

// CW: Suicide (attempted), Misrepresentation of Mental Illness, Abusive Relationships

Additional problems related to ERROR that did not fit in the main document.

CHANGELOG

7 OCTOBER:

- Document release

8 OCTOBER:

- Forgave Riley.
  - Struck link to Riley's account from "PEOPLE INVOLVED".
  - Removed ADDENDUM II (Riley gave us vital context; we were incorrect on that part).
- Azazel statement updated: new context to Bin interaction.
- Learned Firewall is non-binary (he/him); updated parts that refer to him as male.

10 OCTOBER:

- Added changelog section.
- Tweaked language; more articulate, less (unnecessarily) emotional.
- Fixed broken or bad links on some pages.
  - "boz gets scared for nearly an hour" video taken down from Youtube, in wake of drama; will be re-added once we get the raw video file from the creator.

SITUATION

This entire situation started on a space hosted by ERROR on 9 September.

In short, ERROR and her friends were playfully scaring Boz, sending him “creepy” gimmicks to spook him. While Boz acted like he was scared, he was mainly just playing it up for fun.

You can find a recording of this first part of the space here: [link]*

*Video taken down by uploaded, will reupload once raw file is retrieved.

Then, as payback, Boz started playfully scaring ERROR back — playful payback, nothing more. But Boz went too far, and ended up scaring ERROR for real. He thought ERROR was playing up how scared she was too, but only when ESM directly messaged ERROR, and ERROR sent an image of that to Boz, did he realize. Then, he stopped.

Of course, ERROR was frustrated — there is no doubt he broke a boundary there. Boz went on to make multiple apologies to ERROR for this, through posts and DMs, but she refused to accept them.

Once Boz was kicked out, we do not know much about what happened in this half of the space, but we do know that, overnight, their friend group came out of it having decided that Boz was their enemy, along with many new either complete lies or poor assumptions about him — how actually had a "crush" on ERROR and was manipulating her from the very start to be her #1 (Not true), that he was "jealous" of Firewall and wanted to "replace" him as her best friend (Not true), or how he was a manipulative and gaslighting creep that should just outright die (Not true).

This hatred, over a simple mistake, is what they would use to justify EVERY LAST THING they would to do Boz next.

BIN: "Man but I want to really get violent against this dude, it's the least I can do." END.

For these screenshots, Boz understood that ERROR probably wanted to be away from him, and actively tried to distance himself from them by suggesting that he makes his own spaces away from her. But ERROR and her friends find this post, and get right to berating him in the comments.

See how Boz is very clearly regretful of his actions — he is actively taking accountability for what he did and apologizing, which is the very first thing you should do if you cross someone's boundary like he did! But Bin and Riley actively ignore that, and go straight to hurling insults and threats at him. They could just block him, they could just say "No", they could just ignore this post all together if they sincerely thought it was some kind of guilt-trip. But they intent on dragging this as much as they could.

While being frustrated over this would be reasonable, such a simple mistake like this DOES NOT give you carte blanche to be as vile and toxic as you want, just because you decided they "deserve it" when they clearly do not deserve it — that is a childish way of thinking, and is simply NOT how the world works at all! This is far in excess for a friend crossing your (poorly defined) boundaries once, and, with Bin's words especially, come off as if they were either never actually his friend, or looking for any excuse to rip into him — or anybody.

Now, one could defend them by saying they were simply acting out of anger, or that they never meant anything they said here. While intention does NOT equal action, and it still absurd how quick they were to vilify him, each of ERROR's friends here do have their own motives to act like this:

Bin may have a crush on ERROR (or so ERROR herself believes), and Riley, the youngest of their group, has said that they see ERROR as a "bigger sister"; both have reasons to be so extremely defensive of her. But while that may explain why they chose to act like this, that is no excuse for why they chose to act like this.

From this point on, Boz would have to suffer through a month-long campaign of harassment, manipulation, and torment against him, that only they would ever know about.

WHAT WE KNOW OF

A compilation of all of the awful things ERROR and her group have done to Boz in the wake of the 9 September space.

RILEY: "(4 finger pointing up emojis)." BIN: "I don't condone murder, but today I'll make an exception." END.

You can dislike a person. You can block a person. But to make an entire group chat where you do nothing but hate and wish death on someone? That is vile.

One more thing: note how ERROR says that they should "let Firewall torture him". This is important for the next entry.

- Firewall's Gore Fantasies:

Exactly how it sounds. Firewall would go on about all the ways he would torture Boz in graphic (near fetishistic) detail.

Explained more in PART 2.

- Bin's Doxxing Threat

This was heard by our head writer during one of ERROR's twitter spaces during the aftermath. ERROR hosted many public twitter spaces immediately after the incident. Here, mainly only her close friends would join. During this one particular space, only ERROR, Bin, and I, the head writer, were present. While consoling ERROR, Bin made a suggestion to her: as our head writer heard it:

BIN: "Okay, I know you're [ERROR's] not going to like this idea... but maybe we can get (in a quieter voice) personal information on this guy... get him to piss off."

Important to note: Bin only made this suggestion ONCE, and as far as we know, NEVER followed through on it. One could give her the benefit of the doubt by saying she was just upset, and wasn't thinking straight. But doxxing threats are never to be taken lightly. Never.

- The ERROZ ship:

We believe that the only reason ERROR continued to fake being Boz's friend, was over the ship between their two characters, called "Erroz" (or "Eroz") — with them being "content friends" only. Now, that would be fine (if questionable), however ERROR would manipulate Boz into believing they were real friends again. After the incident, ERROR reached out to Boz again. But she did not apologize, or try to make amends... she messaged Boz saying she missed Erroz. That's it. That's why they started talking again, nothing else.

Furthermore, ERROR paused the ship 2 times over the last month — and both times, Boz understood and did not push back.

But when, on 30 September, Boz tried to pause the Erroz ship himself, ERROR would respond with this:

	ALT TEXT: BOZ: "Hey, I've been thinking about a lot of things recently. And uh I kinda wanna end/retcon the Erroz ship. Similar to you, I wanna try something else out. I got some ideas for Boz too, and it would just be easier without the Hey, I've been thinking about a lot things recently. And uh I kinda wanna end/retcon the Erroz ship. Similar to you, I wanna try something else out. I got some ideas for Boz too, and it would just be easier without the Erroz shop. I might come back to it later but I just need something fresh for the time being.

Erroz ship. I might come back to it later, but I just need something fresh for the time being."

ERROR: "Okay I guess, timing sucks ass because I'm in the middle of a multiple days long mental breakdown but eh, you do you."

END.

I do not need to tell you how blatant the guilt-tripping is here. To make it more clear:

> "Hey, I want to do something different with our characters."
> "Okay. Fine. Whatever. I'm actually really unstable and depressed. Did you know that? No you don't because I never told you but You should. Yeah. But sure. Whatever. You do you. I totally don't care. And I'm not implying that this will make me worse by saying that. No. Not at all."

Why is it okay for ERROR to start and stop their ship whenever she pleases, but Boz cannot do the same? Did she not consider that Boz may have also been in a days-long mental breakdown, both times she asked to pause the ship herself?

And how in the world are you supposed to roleplay with a person who wants so much control over your characters, that if you even dare suggest anything different, they'll try to guilt you out of it?

Now, controlling other people's behavior by exploiting their emotions in order to get what you want? Does that not qualify as manipulation?

> "The Plan" aka Firewall and ERROR's trolling of Boz (9/29/25)

Between 9/28 & 9/29, ERROR and Firewall conspired to "troll" Boz, by pretending to flirt with each other in a public space. Part of their narrative was that Boz was, as mentioned before, extremely jealous of Firewall and had a crush on ERROR. Based on that, they plotted to torment him by "pretending" to flirt (and seemingly later date him too).

Also worth noting that, on a space held 1 day earlier, ERROR lamented how Boz could not join because she "made the space specifically to troll [Boz]". She ended that space 15 minutes later.

The next day, Boz would join their space. After ERROR and firewall enact their "plan" for a while, Boz leaves, stating he needs to check his heart rate — not actually due to the flirting, but because even being around Firewall puts him on the edge of a panic attack, and because we were urging him to leave for his own health.

Speaking of which: we happened to get it on camera.

[> 9/29 CLIP HERE <] (AUDIO-ONLY)

Hear how after Boz leaves, ERROR and Firewall laugh about how their plan worked, and how Boz must have been, and I quote "suffering in silence" because of them.

"Suffering in silence." That is how ERROR puts it.

This manipulation is fully intentional. ERROR enjoys the idea of making Boz suffer. There is no other way to put it — and no other way ERROR puts it.

And notice, too, how neither seem even remotely concerned about Boz's heart problems, or even stop to consider that they may be making them worse. If you are not aware, Boz has a condition known as the "Wolff-Parkinson-White syndrome." All that you need to know is that his heartbeat is far faster than it should be, and he is not even allowed to drink caffeine for the health risk.

Now, ERROR and her group, they know this. They've known this. They knew about this since the beginning of this all, but how did they justify it? They labelled it as "guilt-tripping." Guilt-tripping. A real medical condition. They would sooner believe he was faking a medical condition than even consider the idea that their actions may actually affect people. They would sooner put him in the hospital just to get their "revenge" than ever change their minds.

They take anything Boz does — every word, every feeling, every time he even just leaves a space — and run with it. They do not want to solve their problems: if they were actually sorry about anything, they wouldn't be looking for any and every excuse to continue tormenting him.

STATEMENTS

Before we continue, we have elected to gather a set of statements from people in the comment — 1 from another (innocent) friend of ERROR, 1 from Boz, 1 from a writer of this document, and a couple from the community as a whole.

The point of this is to show how Boz was not the only one to have bad encounters with (and strong opinions about) ERROR's group.

BOZ	"So, I want to begin by saying I never wanted this. A Google doc, it all feels overkill because I was not the victim in this. I don’t feel that I have the right to be making a document. However I’m starting to feel unsafe. I've been thinking about deactivating my accounts because I’ve been so paranoid over someone doing something, trying to blackmail me perhaps? I don’t know, but what has been said behind my back hasn’t put my mind at ease. So I’m sorry it’s come to this, but for my safety it must be done. I would like to begin by apologizing again, now that I know exactly how Kya feels, I can directly address and apologize for things specifically. I’d like to begin by saying simply that I’m sorry for trying to scare you Kya, I was using you for my entertainment and I shouldn’t have. At the very least I should've stopped when you were genuinely scared but in all likelihood I shouldn’t have done that at all. I apologize for doubting your fears, and trying to push the blame. I’ve tried to make it clear after that I don’t think you did anything, you shouldn’t doubt yourself because I am very clearly the one to blame. I should’ve left
Man of the hour. Anti-social guy (arguably for good reason now). Crossed ERROR's boundaries once, and now believes that everything they have done to him, he deserves — simply him "paying the price". But whatever "debt" Boz had to ERROR, we believe that it has been completely outweighed by the lengths the latter has gone for the sake of cruelty and blind revenge. Ironically, ERROR and her group have done ALL of the same crimes that they accuse Boz of, as you will see.

(That, and Boz has already apologized several times and taken accountability, so I am not sure what else they could even want from him at this point.)	you alone afterwards, I sent some DM's (which you saw as "creepy" however I wasn't trying to be "creepy", the consequences of my actions had begun to resonate with me and I was desperate for an apology. However I should have simply left you alone that night to feel better. I didn't know how you felt the next morning, I wanted to believe that you forgot about me because it was better than facing the reality that I hurt you. I don't want to hurt anyone, I couldn't accept that I hurt anyone. I sent some messages accepting that you despise me, and that we would never become friends again. I shouldn't have gone all in with that, it probably didn't make you seem any better and it most likely looked like I was trying to paint myself as the victim. I wasn't attempting that however, I was only trying to make myself feel better, and the way I do that is by convincing myself of the worst. I probably shouldn't have made posts about it, and I'm sorry for only making you more upset. I could address everything else, I could address how I feel about Firewall, or Bin harassing me, or everything under the sun. But I don't think I'm going to. I still have trouble deciding if this is all deserved or not, I've been told that this is extreme but is it really? I hurt Kya and now I'm suffering the consequences of my actions, I don't see why any of this isn't deserved. I hate drama."
FRIEND of ERROR Only tangentially involved, but were there for almost the entirety of this situation.	"Okay I'll talk about the Boz situation because that's pretty much what started everything. I remember like, a few weeks ago — I think nearing a month — I was on a space with Kya, like I usually

They were also angry at Boz, but have since forgiven them. Provided solid proof of many of the things our head writer only overheard. This behavior does not just affect your "enemies", it affects EVERYONE around you, even people you actually are friends with. You may ask: "how can we trust this person if they were also a part of this friend group?" Well, because they changed. They were able to reflect, own up to how rash they were, and try to make up with Boz — the kind of behavior we WANT to see in our community. For that, we forgave them, and we want them to stay in our community. That is also why they are anonymous — we owe them that anonymity, to help them escape this toxic friend group too. It is only the 4 main	am, and after a while I left, which was when everything went downhill. The following morning, I was told that Boz had done something to Kya, so I joined the space and she explained to me that after I left, Kya and Riley got Boz's permission to be really scary/ominous on his strawpage for the fun of it, and Boz said it was okay. She then told me that Boz started really scaring her by speaking in a crazed tone almost and randomly singing out of the blue. asking her "Don't you wanna sing along Kya/ERROR?" (I forgot which name), and also said Boz said [that] he would have continued to scare ERROR knowing she was like GENUINELY out of character and scared if ESM (ERROR System Malware) didn't DM Boz.[3] I ended up talking with Boz while on the space to get more information, I was mainly zoned out though a lot of this. But while I was doing [this with] Boz, [I] was just comforting Kya as well. When I asked Boz about what had happened, he told me basically the same thing. He said he was sorry, he said he apologised A LOT to Kya, but I don't think she accepted it. After everything, Boz didn't really come back to the spaces Kya hosted because I assume he was scared, and it is evident that he IS scared of ERROR's friend group, considering he leaves when Firewall (the British and red one) joins. While Boz wasn't in the spaces, Kya's friend group usually made fun of Boz, and kept saying they were gonna kill him for what he did (which I did say was extreme). Riley, who is one of ERROR's friends, did make a group chat called "The murder group (specifically boz murder group)" which I was added members of ERROR's friend group (the ones listed [HERE]) that have continued to act this way.	to. I wasn't active in the groupchat, sending like 1 message when I was really pissed off. At the time I was leaning towards ERROR's side, and said 1 thing I shouldn't have said and feel bad about it — considering I consider Boz a friend. I do really regret it still. Usually on the space, Kya and Firewall say that Boz is scared of Firewall — which I do believe because they have said some pretty bad stuff about Boz, mainly [about] killing him in inhumane ways — which is reasonable!!! I feel scared about talking about the Boz situation to ERROR and her friend group, because I do NOT want to have the same happen to me. ERROR has also said a lot that if anyone tries to do anything to her or goes against her, her friend group will NOT be nice to you whatsoever. This is pretty much everything that I remember."

HEAD WRITER	Hello again.
Self-explanantory.	I sat in those spaces. I heard everything. I told Boz everything. I did it because I wanted to. When ERROR refused to communicate, I would communicate for them. I was sympathetic to ERROR at first. I would tell Boz that he needed to take a break, and work on himself. I helped him through the dark parts of that whole first week. I do think Boz was wrong for breaking that boundary — but that’s so small, compared to you. Because you have done worse. So much worse. We have learned that. We coordinated everything. I believe our investigation was a success. Now, I know exactly how you will try to defend yourself, so let me tell you this first: suffering doesn't just make you righteous; you are still a human, and just like everyone else, you have to TRY to be a good person. And you have not tried hard enough. Remember: at any point, you could have stopped. Could have called off your rabid friends, told Firewall to shut it. But you never did. You chose to do this to yourself.

AZAZEL Owner of the Computerlings Discord server, and creator of GU4RD14N_4NG3L. Talked to Boz in the heat of this drama, started this document, and spread the word about ERROR's actions to other members of our community prior to this document's release because we felt people should be warned of ERROR's group	Okay so, initially, my first impression of ERROR was when one of the peeps got blocked by them because “they thought they were more powerful than her” even though the characters obviously are. ERROR has NO respect for roleplay etiquette or ethics, what she says goes and she WILL block or talk shit about you or worse, send her minions after you[4], the moment you give fair criticism of her or her work, or you don't agree with what she wants. I don't like how they immediately react with hostility the moment someone does something wrong once, and they're HORRIBLE at communication, immediately deeming someone as ASAP. Here, Az brings up a good point: ERROR's bad actions aside, she is also not a good roleplayer. Even if she is "forgiven" in the end, booting them from our community is the best option for everyone.	evil. ERROR has massive main character syndrome, not just her character– because that's okay – but it's herself that has it too. She's this self-absorbed, “I'm at the top of the world” person, and her character is unstoppable despite being powerful with-no-reason and just a Mary Sue, regardless of other characters obviously being more powerful-with-reason. I didn't like her from the get go, and I only interacted with her in the past only when Boz was present. I was afraid to speak out about her let alone say anything bad about her back then because she had a bigger following, and I thought that my opinions on her were not valid… which, looking back to it now, it totally was. It's also worth mentioning that upon bringing her up in the GC and having conversations about her multiple times (started by different people), we ALL had the same opinions and agreed on the same reasons why we didn't like ERROR. Next is about Bin, while it isn't as serious, it's really odd.

I did NOT know that it was late for them, and they offered to help themselves (verbally in VC) and asked them if they were good cause they left VC suddenly. I don't know why but after the “okay yeah” they blocked me. It's worth mentioning that we also already banned them in the COMPUTERLINGS-TWT Server, as well as keeping them from being added in the GC. ERROR and Bin for the reasons we've stated before, and will be brought up with more detail with the following parts of this document. Basically, banned and blacklisted for: Toxicity, Problematic Behavior, and so much more that we didn't even know was a thing prior to the banning/blacklisting. UPDATE: 8 OCTOBER Paragraph mentioning Riley removed. Azazel later went back to clarify the incident with Bin above/
CELESTE Creator of @L0CK3T_CRYPT.	So, I want to start by stating that I've been in a few communities, I've seen a few dramas, and I've

An outsider looking in, made multiple great points about ERROR's behavior that we more than worth sharing here — including some points we did not even consider.	seen problematic figures. I really wish that weren't the case here, but unfortunately drama is everywhere on this site. ERROR, I don't really know you. I never did. But from what I can collect from all the things that I have read from the doc and from what I can infer from your character is this. You misrepresent issues actual people struggle with, for example Sociopathy. You actively emotionally manipulated Boz to keep a ship that was mainly seen as abusive as canon for about a month. You, knowingly, are dating a racist who feels the need to ask if people are "okay with slurs" and doesn't understand why people would get upset. I make exceptions for young people, but this is a recurring issue. Not only that, but in a community full of non-cis people, your [non-binary] boyfriend said the D-slur. Furthermore, your boyfriend has indepth described actual fucking torture porn of not C!Boz, but the actual, real life person behind Boz. If I even need to state WHY that is fucked up - you're just not listening. You continually prompted your friends, not once attempting to stop them, to harass Boz at nearly every end. You say you want to move on, but people who want to move on don't actively unblock people just to say rude things, or comment under people's posts. You could have told Bin to stop at any time - a simple "that's a bit harsh" won't stop someone from saying they want to use violence on a real life person for breaking a boundary that wasn't even pointed out in the first place. Also, behind my back, you criticize the characters I pour so much effort into, and I am most likely not the only one as I've come to learn. UPDATE: 8 OCTOBER Paragraph mentioning Riley removed. You say you have a friendship with Boz, you say they're your bestie, but from what I can gather, it seems like all you have been doing is antagonizing them, and then turning around to say "nevermind guys, we're actually just friends!" I'm going to leave you with this question. If worse did come to worse, and Boz was hospitalized - would it be worth it? Would that vindication leave you feeling fulfilled, knowing you hospitalized someone (a seventeen year old, mind you.) under the guise of being a "troll?" No amount of boundary breaking can justify something like that. Knowing you, you'd probably feign innocence then turn around with your boyfriend and say the "troll worked". You remind me of someone I used to know from a previous community. Disgusting.

P.	Welp. I'll begin with the whole recording incident

The very first person that reached out to Boz following the 29/9 incident.	with Firewall. To say it was shocking is short. I'll admit at the first instance, the "what level of slurs are you all okay with" was nothing that called a red flag to me. Maybe a bit fucked up? Perhaps, but in my mind the thought was "oh, well, he might say like, i don't know, 'Fuck', or 'Shit', or ect., like, that type of slurs. What I did NOT expect at any moment was him saying right aterwards going if "it was okay to say racial slurs". Excuse me? What in the actual fuck? In that exact moment, me personally, I'm in shock. Not to mention the "I'm not being racist if I say any form of racial slurs". Then [he] adds, after a warning from another speaker that "it's all being recorded", the following: "I could not give less of a fuck what people hear me say." So what, we okay with racism now? Is it funny? Is it cool? Is it so, so great to do? Not to mention, instead of defusing the situation, ERROR decides to just play it off, you know what that makes you, ERROR? An accomplice, and it's undeniable. And ERROR? I have never interacted with them, truthfully, for me, that's great. Seeing how they acted, and seeing on their posts how they made their character act, in an abusive, manipulative and controlling manner whilst on the 'Eroz' ship... what can I say. I suppose some people can be exactly like their characters. But you're not supposed to be like them, you know? As bad as it is being in character, I could've understood that. But being like that? I would never be friends with someone like them. I hope they realize their mistakes, I hope they change for the better, for this is in my nature, to forgive but not forget, although I have nothing to claim for that in my case, but being a horrible person, and doing what you do, just to make fun of someone, just to hurt someone, I feel pity for you. Pity for not being better. Pity for being what you are. And must I add, you claimed to be friends with Boz? Have you proved that ONCE? Tell me, where were you when he was feeling horrible? Where were you when he felt like it was all crashing down? Oh, right, you weren't. You never were his friend. You never wanted to be. You only wanted control over him. You know, I had to help Boz because YOU were targeting him. Because YOU were controlling him. YOU are the problem. Because not only do you control, not only do you manipulate, and not only do you want to be the center of attention in all situations... but you couldn't care less if something had actually happened to him. There are ways to solve issues; sending your minions to do the dirty work is not one of them. It'll never be. It'll never work. Try to play victim. Try it. I dare you. Go ahead and try to spin the story around. This is a 40-page document proving not only what you, but all of your friends really are. The truth ends up coming out eventually, and today is when it comes out. I'm writing this with disappointment, with rage and with hate, but you know what I wouldn't do? Wish someone's death — unlike your little group. Be better. Do better. Murder is not a joke. Doxxing is not a joke. What I've heard of your threats is appalling. I can't grasp how a human being can wish these things on another one when they had apologized, they had done everything they could to make it up, only to get this in return. What you did is horrible. What you did is, without a single doubt, straight up Class A+ Manipulation. And you know what? It ALMOST worked. Almost. I hope you realize I've spent EVERY. SINGLE. DAY. CHECKING ON BOZ. You know why? You REALLY wanna know why? Because THAT'S what friends do. I care — you clearly, once again, never did. I hope you read this, I really do. And I just wanna finish this with one of my favourite quotes, ever. They know who they are. After all, I've mentioned two of them here, and the rest are in the document: "To whom it may concern: Fuck you."

We asked people in the Computerlings-TWT Discord if they had any bad experiences with ERROR's group, at any point. The stories here reveal how hypocritical ERROR is when judging others. She branded Boz as evil for overstepping her boundaries, yet she constantly breaks the boundaries of others.

Some of these people have opted to go anonymous for safety, while others chose to put their name to their words.

The space the third story mentions, we do have on recording. Repeatedly begging to be co-host (and talking over everyone else), while Boz declines multiple times, and then afterwards proceeding to make another space herself called "Fuck Boz." The day after, Boz would try to host a new space — but seconds after, ERROR starts a space herself called "The Better Space," as if she was waiting.

Bad experiences
Specifically, I had a bad experience with spindle and his use of slurs. My first impression of him was "oh yeah I LOVE TO SAY SLURS" which was err... Terrible. I usually don't feel bad about them, Ive been through a lot and heard a lot of shit using slurs, so usually I'm not uncomfortable with it... But as a first impression that's just...
So, he started talking about his usage of slurs, not offending people, etc. Which, you already know. To be honest, it made me and my partner really uncomfortable, we discussed it after on a call when he went to bed, and we both agreed it was odd.

PART 2: Firewall

While compiling evidence, we found some ... awful things about one of ERROR's friends, "Firewall" (@/Firewall_0o, alts: @/Dolios_VT, @/Spindle_JM). Multiple accounts of him saying slurs, joking about saying slurs, and other gross behavior.

We WERE NOT looking for this; while we already thought poorly of Firewall, and had already started work on this document, we had no idea of his racist behavior until a friend of ERROR's came forward.

RACISM:

Per ERROR's anonymous friend:

<tr>

<td>

<tr>
<td>ALT TEXT:
Oh yeah, did I ever mention Firewall (the red British one, it'll always be that one throughout all this) has stated multiple times he says the N-word as a white person because, quote on quote,</td>

"And then called me racist when I asked</td>

"You get the N-word pass while playing (blank)"(I forgot the name of the game)". END	what it was, because I didn't know if I was right." "I don't know if he meant it as a joke but... END

ALT TEXT: DUDE HE SAID HE SAYS THE N-WORD, BUT I DIDN'T GET AUDIO BECAUSE OF THE SPACES. How I hate Twitter spaces. Is it possible on your [writer's] alt? He also said that anyone that tries to cancel him for saying slurs is a pedophile. END

After being alerted to this behavior, we then made an effort to try and get him saying this on recording — because, of course, we needed proof. And proof we got.

24/9/25 Incident, on Boz-hosted Space [VIEW FULL SPACE RECORDING] (Skip to: 6:13:15) OR... [VIEW CLIP] (AUDIO-ONLY)
Firewall asks people in the space "what level of slurs are you all okay with". He then proceeds to ask if it's "okay" to say racial slurs.

> The other person talking in this space is clearly uncomfortable, but ERROR sounds completely unphased, even laughing a bit. She jokes about Firewall being her "problematic" friend.

I don't think I need to say much more than that. But I will:

ERROR is clearly aware of this behavior from Firewall (again, her "problematic" friend). Either she too thinks this is okay, or she does not care. Either way, this is unacceptable.

Following this, for the safety of everyone in the Computerlings community, we got Az to put out an announcement warning everyone in the official Discord server about Firewall. We posted the evidence against him specifically that we had on-hand, and told them to not interact with, as it would damage our investigation.

In short, we have good reason to believe that Firewall is a racist, and that ERROR (and her friends by proxy) are... completely okay with him. They do not tell him to stop, or get uncomfortable: they laugh along.

GORE:

On another, somehow equally as disgusting note, we also know from both the head writer who was in-cal, and the friend, that on multiple occasions Firewall described, at length and in graphic detail, all the ways he would torture and kill Boz — real Boz, not his character.

Now I have four friends who wanna kill him- firewall scares me tho bro, firewall was literally yapping about how "I'll dig hooks into the tendons of his heels and hang him upside down,cut of pieces of flesh and rub salt in the wound and feed the flesh to himself"

END

Ignoring the fact that this a ridiculously inefficient way to torture someone: what warrants this? I do not need to explain that writing torture porn about a real person is vile no matter what.

From what I heard in the spaces, they constantly joked about killing him, sometimes in graphic detail.

Think: ERROR and her friend group KNEW about ALL of this. But did they ever cut ties, confront him, or say anything about it? No. They liked that about him — remember, he's their "problematic friend". And if Firewall is okay with saying racial slurs in a public space, just imagine the kind of person he really is behind closed doors.

In short, ERROR, Bin, and Riley have been sheltering a dangerous, racist individual in our community. And as of 5 October, ERROR is now apparently dating that racist.

This alone, beyond even the Boz drama, or all the boundaries these people have crossed, is more than reason enough to NOT allow this group into our community again.

END

The point of these screenshots is to point out the flaws about C!ERROR, her character is not only abusive but this is someone she defends, insisting that she loves C!Boz despite the abusive tendencies and treatments she does towards him. Normally an abusive character wouldn't be a problem as long as you handle it respectfully, but if you defend or justify the actions of the character, well, that's just not okay. That says a lot about you as a person.

Not only is this the case but ERROR also misrepresents mental illnesses like Sociopathy, treating and presenting it as its stereotypical counterpart. To add up to that, she also uses very serious topics for her character's past as an excuse to present her character as the way she is, but treating it in a way where it is disrespectful and again, misrepresentation of said issues.

ERROR took this roleplay as a personal attack, but also NEVER addressed that to Woe, never made an attempt to say "Hey, I'm sorry but you're making me uncomfortable", or "I think you might be going too far." Instead, what did she do? She went on a space, read out every DM Woe sent, and convinced her friend group to mass-block them.

This was made to criticize her CHARACTER, mind you, her CHARACTER. Not her, but she took it very personally, not once was SHE directly even mentioned let alone her past experience, she chose to make it an issue because things did not go her way and because someone decided to criticize her character, the same character that is so BADLY written, that it's offensive to so many topics and people who have also gone through with said things.

II. RILEY

UPDATE: 8 OCTOBER

THE FOLLOWING ADDENDUM HAS BEEN REMOVED AFTER RILEY CONTACTED US.

RILEY HAS GIVEN US VITAL CONTEXT, AND WE ARE NOW CERTAIN THAT THEIR ATTEMPT WAS TRUE. WE APOLOGIZE FOR ACCUSING RILEY OF SUCH AN AWFUL ACT. MORE CONTEXT WILL BE PROVIDED IN THE NEXT UPDATE.

PART 3: Conclusion

Boz has had to deal with this friend group for the better part of a month now. Not once have they ever shown any amount of guilt or regret for their actions — zero reflection of any sort on their part. As such, we saw no other option than to make this document: compile everything they have done and . Even if you do not agree with the points we brought up here, you cannot deny how vile their behavior has been.

The "final nail in the coffin" (as Bin would put it) is the fact that they've been very close friends with someone who is undeniably racist — he's a white guy who's always itching to say a racial slur, what's not clicking — and actively excusing Firewall’s behavior for seemingly the entire time they've known him, no attempt to even hide any of it.

In our opinion, for the safety of everyone, we ask that these people be booted from our community and blacklisted from our spaces as soon as possible. They have been nothing but trouble for the community we all worked so hard to keep alive.

May an example be made out of them.

More importantly, this whole disaster has taken a major toll on Boz. By his own words, he's lost trust in people, started seeing the worst in himself — only when people like me, or Az, all of the folks we shared this with, reached out to comfort him, tell him how we appreciated him, and how we would fight tooth and nail for him no matter what, did he start to gain that trust in himself back.

Remember: he, nor us, nor you, would know any of this was even happening, had someone not stepped up.

So if anything like this is to ever happen again, please: be the one to step up.

And to ERROR:

We know you will scheme to make a counter-document, or a response, or try to make excuses for any and every one of your actions here. Do not bother. What could you even defend here? Poke holes in our points all you want, but the proof is here, all laid bare. “Sorry” is not enough now, it will NEVER be enough. You chose not to fix things, chose not to make things right, chose to continue, all for you and your disgusting group's own fun, time and time and time again.

Everyone we spread the word to was immediately disgusted by you — even people from other communities were warned ahead of time about you. There is no one to try to fool anymore. If you want to incriminate yourself anymore, be our guest, but otherwise:

Get out of our community.

I don't think error saying out of character "boz is scaring me" is a fucking social queue. it a direct request.

I wasn't thinking straight I'm sorry, i thought it was funny because I have zero idea. I was being an idiot, there's nothing else to it are you proud of yourself.

Boz PMaM 9/5/25, 3:49 PM
Of course not
I've been beating myself up over it all day since it happened

she was audibly hyperventilating over the mic.
I'm ashamed.
Boz PMaM 9/5/25, 3:50 PM
I thought it was funny. I was an idiot, you have every right to hate me and shame me and whatever
I was just saying to a friend how I wish that I had stopped forever before
That I had either went to bed or broken character or something
And I hate myself for what I did
I hardly want to even think about what happened last night because I'm so ashamed and embarrassed
I had a literal stomach ache and headache from the guilt

Don't get me wrong but I hated you from day one and I'm glad it was justified now have a good day, or whatever it is you're doing now
I don't give a shit unless it involves kya

It's very clear-cut, no? Boz apologizes, saying exactly what he did wrong, and precisely how he plans to better, while Bin… just doesn't care and continues trying to torment him.

[1.1] Bin's mention of "ERROR saying out of character 'Boz is scaring me'", which is most likely referring to a post she made on her main account — not a DM like ESM sent. We will not add it here, because it includes ERROR's real face, but she seemed to be smiling in the photo she attached. Mixed signals.

[1.2] We don't even know how "audibly" ERROR was hyperventilating. For all we know — given this group's tendency to obscure the truth — this could be exaggeration or an outright lie. Even then, how could he have just automatically known that ERROR was sensitive to that kind of joke, if they were okay with making the same jokes with him? For all he knew, ERROR was simply playing up how scared she was, the same way Boz did — where they sounded scared, but really weren't. They never bothered to just outright tell him at all, like ESM was so easily able to do. Boz was more than willing to stop the second he knew it was serious, ESM can verify, but ERROR's friend group never told him it was serious to his face — and that is a failure to communicate on their part.

[1.3] There was some confusion about whether Boz was in or out of character.

[1.4] This just looks immature. Why this emoji?

[1.5] Implying they were looking for any excuse to gang up on him from the start, and were always lying about being his "friend". Or else, this was simply said to try and childishly hurt them. Either way, very bad. Also this is the same thing they said before under his post.

[2] As opposed to wanting to skin him ironically?

[3] Slightly false. Boz assumed that ERROR was playing up how scared she was, the same he did when they were trying to scare him. Only when ESM DMed ERROR, and then finally ERROR sent Boz a screenshot of ESM's DM, did he stop.

[4] Corroborated by Bin and Riley's viciousness to Boz.
